DETAILED ACTION

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claim 25-26, drawn to a method for determining treatments for a cancer patient comprising unique steps of correlating specific sequence positions with a cancer treatment, classified in class 702, subclass 19.
- II. Claim 27-28, drawn to a method for determining treatments for a cancer patient comprising unique steps of correlating specific sequence positions with a cancer treatment, classified in class 702, subclass 19.

Inventions I and II are directed to related subject matter of methods of determining treatments for a cancer patient. The related inventions are distinct if the inventions as claimed do not overlap in scope, i.e., are mutually exclusive; the inventions as claimed are not obvious variants; and the inventions as claimed are either not capable of use together or can have a materially different design, mode of operation, function, or effect. See MPEP § 806.05(j). In the instant case, group I is drawn to a method for determining treatments for a cancer patient comprising unique steps of correlating specific sequence positions with a cancer treatment. The method involves determining what amino acids are encoded by a unique group of positions and then correlating those amino acids with a cancer treatment. Group II is drawn to a method for determining treatments for a cancer patient comprising unique steps of correlating specific sequence positions with a cancer treatment. The method also involves determining what amino acids are encoded by a unique group of positions and then correlating those amino acids with a cancer treatment. The two inventive groups involve determining what amino acids are encoded at a unique group of positions and then correlating those amino acids with a cancer treatment, which the determined encoded amino acids at the two unique groups of positions requires unique method steps of correlating those unique groups of amino acids with a cancer treatment.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

Art Unit: 1631

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
